

Dear Deairy

I will never forget my last holidays. One day I woke up in the beautiful cottage in the mountains. It was hot and sunny day so I decided to go for a walk. When I was going towards "Chatka Puchatka". I met an English man who at the first sight looked strange but, when I talked with him for a while I realised that he is fascinating and full of passions. I had a great opportunity to talk with him in English and I found out that travelling broadens the horizons and gives a lot of happiness. That experience shoued me that my aim for living is to travel around the world. In the evening I organised a party and it was a great fun.

Another day was better. I was sleeping when my dad phoned me and said "you have got 5 minutes to pack your suitcase". I was so confused, also surprised and excited because my dad loves making surprises. After five minutes I knew what my dad organised to me. We went by the sea. When we reached our destination I was tired but very pleased. I spent my day playing volleyball, swimming and sunbathing. At the end of the day I went on the concert. It was a fascinating day.

My last weekend of my holidays was incredible and exciting. My dad suggested we should go canoeing. We took all our necessary equipment and drove to the river. When we got at that place I saw breathtaking view and beautiful nature. We started canoeing and It lasted almost hours. I need to say there were moments which seen be really dangerous but extremely exciting. It was day of my life.
